<td>6.1 Demonstrate behaviors that are consistent with the belief that all students can become physically educated individuals.</td>
<td>TC demonstrates characteristics of “motor elitism” by providing more feedback to highly skilled students. TC excludes students during the lesson by having them participate less often in drills, games, or physical activity. TC fails to make adaptations in lesson for underperforming students.</td>
<td>TC provides equal amounts of feedback to students regardless of skill level. All students are encouraged to participate and equitable opportunities for participation in drills, games or physical activity are provided. TC makes adaptations in lesson for underperforming students.</td>

Glossary of Terms

Notes:

1. The reader of this document should become thoroughly familiar with the Glossary of NCATE Terms as found in the NCATE Unit Standards in Professional Standards for the Accreditation of Schools, Colleges, and Departments of Education, found at http://www.ncate.org/public/standards.asp. The following Glossary of Terms is supplemental and specific to the NASPE Initial PETE Standards 2008.

2. Throughout the standards and elements, the term teacher candidate refers to pre-service teachers in an initial preparation program. The term student refers to the school-age (K-12) student.

3. Throughout the standards and elements the term physically educated individuals refers to NASPE’s (2004) definition of a physically educated person:
   - has learned skills necessary to perform a variety of physical activities;
   - knows the implications of and the benefits involvement in physical activities;
   - does participate regularly in physical activity;
   - is physically fit;
   - values physical activity and its contribution to a healthy lifestyle.

Instructional Feedback

Specific, intentional, well-timed augmented information provided by the teacher candidate to the student which serves the primary purpose of increasing student motor skill learning and performance. Some intentional feedback (used sparingly) may also serve to increase motivation and/or reinforce appropriate behaviors during practice or performance.

Assessments/Appropriate Assessments

Tools and strategies used to gather information about a K-12 student’s level of achievement. Assessments are used to make inferences about the level of student learning and to inform about the teacher candidate about the enhancement of student learning. Appropriate assessments are linked to lesson/unit goals and objectives, conducted within the context of instruction, and match the developmental level of both the student and the teacher candidate.

Critical Elements

Essential components of skillful movements (e.g. in throwing, the elements include arm, body, and leg actions).

Developmentally Appropriate

The outcome of a developmentally and instructionally appropriate program of physical education is an individual who has the knowledge, skills and confidence to become and remain physically active for a lifetime. Appropriate instruction in physical education incorporates the best-known practices, derived from both research and teaching experiences, into a pattern of instruction that maximizes opportunities for learning and success for all students. (NASPE, 2008) Developmentally appropriate instruction takes into account the fact that “developmental change is qualitative, sequential, directional, cumulative, multifactorial, and individual.” (NASPE, 1995, p. 17)

Dispositions
The attitudes, values, and beliefs demonstrated through both verbal and non-verbal behaviors as educators interact with students, families, colleagues, and communities. These professional dispositions support student learning and development (NCATE, 2008).

Diverse Student Needs/Student Diversity
Differences among groups of people and individuals based on ethnicity, race, socioeconomic status, gender, exceptionalities, language, religion, sexual orientation, geographical area, and developmental differences.

Health-Enhancing Fitness
Intentional and systematic physical activity that positively enhances the components of personal physical fitness (i.e. cardiovascular and muscular). Improving these components reduce the risk of disease and illness and enhance overall health and well-being.

Instructional Cues and Prompts
Verbal cues that direct or focus the student’s attention to the key elements of a skill or prompts the student to perform key movement components of skills (e.g. “platform with arms” for volleyball forearm pass).

Instructional Feedback
Specific, intentional, well-timed augmented information provided by the teacher candidate to the student which serves the primary purpose of increasing student motor skill learning and performance. Some intentional feedback (used sparingly) may also serve to increase motivation and/or reinforce appropriate behaviors during practice or performance.

Instructional Formats
Teaching approaches ranging from direct to indirect.

Learning Experiences
Planned instructional activities to help meet learning goals and objectives for K-12 students.

Movement Patterns
Fundamental movements are the essential building blocks to skillful movement. These include locomotor (i.e. jumping and running), nonlocomotor (i.e. bending and stretching), and manipulative (i.e. striking and throwing) movement patterns.

Non-Verbal Communication
Techniques of communicating that use expressions, gestures, body posture, and/or signals rather than the spoken word. May also include materials, technology, and alternative resources such as task cards or poster boards.

Performance Concepts
Knowledge and action concepts related to the skillful performance of movement and fitness activities. This includes the aspects of (1) correct selection or “what” to do (i.e. when to choose a drop shot or why choose low repetitions for strength training) when performing a skill; and (2) correct execution or “how” to do a skill (i.e. execute a wrist flick or speed of lowering the weight in a repetition) (Rink, 2003).

Personal Competence in Motor Skill Performance

The teacher candidate demonstrates movement skills and movement patterns at a level necessary to perform a variety of physical activities. Teacher candidates are expected to be minimally competent in many movement forms and proficient in a few movement forms (NASPE, 2004). Teacher preparation programs may assess personal competence of teacher candidates in a variety of ways.

Personal Competence in Health-Enhancing Fitness

The teacher candidate demonstrates he/she is physically fit and does participate regularly in physical activity that enhances personal fitness and overall health (NASPE, 2004). Teacher preparation programs may assess the achievement and maintenance of health-enhancing levels of physical fitness in teacher candidates in a variety of ways.

Physically Educated Individuals

See Note 3.

Reflection

Mental process of the teacher candidate in which he/she considers relevant instructional and contextual factors (i.e. student diversity, developmental differences, type of motor skill), the achievement of student learning outcomes, and the use of assessment data to modify instruction and enhance future student learning. This is the last element of the reflective cycle.

Reflective Cycle

The systematic and comprehensive process of using assessment data to inform the teacher candidate about student achievement of learning outcomes, and the modification of instruction, (based on assessment data) to enhance student learning.

Short and Long Term Plans

Short term plans refers to daily lesson plans, while long term plans refers to unit plans (weeks or collection of daily lessons). Daily lesson plans comprise unit plans.

Students

School-aged K-12 Students.

Teacher Candidates

Pre-service teachers in an initial teacher education program.

Technology

Tools appropriately used to work effectively with students and increase student learning and performance. Technology is either discipline-specific or tailored to achieve lesson/unit learning goals and objectives.

Variety of Physical Activities

Specific motor skills and activities that together constitute K-12 physical education. These may include but are not limited to: aquatics, dance and rhythms, fitness activities, fundamental motor skills, lifetime leisure activities, outdoor activities, sports (team, individual, and dual).
